

Unilever does it again - named industry leader in Dow Jones Sustainability Index

Goodwin's Gastro Gossip

Goodwin's Gastro Gossip

FRONT PAGE ABOUT CONTACT

— Restaurant review: Fire and Stone, Covent Garden

Unilever does it again – named industry leader in Dow Jones Sustainability Index

September 8, 2009 · Leave a Comment

Not satisfied with topping the EnvirUp eco-index, Unilever has yet again come top in another index – this time it's the prestigious Dow Jones Sustainability Index.

Unilever took the top spot in the food and beverage industry beating others on its corporate economic, environmental and social performance.

The company was assessed for its handling of issues such as corporate governance, risk management, branding, climate change mitigation, supply chain standards and labor practices.

This was Unilever's 11th consecutive year as the industry leader – so congrats to the big U!

RECENT POSTS

- Unilever does it again – named industry leader in Dow Jones Sustainability Index
- Restaurant review: Fire and Stone, Covent Garden
- Chocolate shortage to hit UK
- Tequila is the UK's favourite spirit but what does this mean for Mexico?
- Easiest homemade curry around – Raffi's spicebox
- The fizzy cola bottle is Britain's favourite sweet, says M&S
- Haribo branded worst on eco-index while Unilever is awarded green crown
- Only the Italians: Food and wine as collateral for bank loans