

Case Study: Environmental Training for NCVS Staff

The EnvirUP Way

EnvirUP design and run Environmental seminars and workshops with businesses who want to understand and lower their impact on the environment and to help them become more energy efficient in the running of their business, thus helping them become more profitable.

What we offered

With NCVS we:

- Invited and helped promote a morning presentation session to all staff hosted at the NCVS premises.
- Created a tailored environmental presentation looking at impacts, resource efficiency techniques, Environmental Management systems as well as explaining the EnvirUP employee participation model.
- Conducted a team driven workshop to build momentum for environmental pro-activism and establish practical achievable tasks and goals.
- Appointed employees to specific roles.
- Provided feedback and a written report of the seminars achievements in order to maintain momentum.

The Results

The training proved to be very successful with the vast majority of attendees (70%) finding the session “very good” or “good” with most stating that their knowledge had increased after the event. Every attendee stated that they would be able to “fully” or “mostly” apply what they had learned outside the workplace.

Customer Feedback

“The training was great, stirring up a lot of enthusiasm within the group, enabling us to get an action plan together and gain volunteers outside the usual suspects!” (NCVS)
